

The Authority regulates the Private Security Industry through:

The primary objectives of the Authority are to regulate the private security industry and to exercise effective control over the practice of the occupation of the security service providers in the public and national interest and the interest of the private security industry itself, and for that purpose , subject to the Act, to: promote a legitimate private security industry which acts in terms of the principles contained in the Constitution and other applicable law; ensure that all security service providers act in the public and national interest in rendering of security services; promote a private security industry which is characterised by integrity, accountability and innovation.

- Registration of service providers and security officers
- Ensuring compliance and adherence to PSiRA Act and all other laws applicable to security service providers.
- Accredit security training service providers.
- Process course reports submitted by training centres.
- Receive and investigate complaints against security service providers and security officers
- Prosecute non-compliance by security service providers.
- Advise private security consumers about private security industry.

Regulated industries:

- Private investigator
- Security consultants
- In-house
- Guarding sector
- Close protection
- Response security
- Assets in transit

- Events security
- Control room
- Security equipment manufacturers
- Locksmiths
- Electronic security
- Security training